

*NSF NANOSCALE SCIENCE AND ENGINEERING GRANTEES CONFERENCE: NANO AND AI CONVERGENCE
DECEMBER 9-10, 2024*

DMITRY GOLOVATY

Program Director
National Science Foundation

Bio: Dmitry Golovaty is currently serving as a rotating program officer in the Applied Mathematics Program of the Division of Mathematical Sciences at National Science Foundation. He is also a Professor of Mathematics at the University of Akron. He received his BS/MS in Physical Metallurgy from the Institute of Steel and Alloys in Moscow, Russia in 1985 and PhD in Mathematics from Carnegie Mellon in 1995. After doing a postdoc at Penn State, he has been at the University of Akron since 2000. His expertise is in mathematics of materials and nonlinear analysis.